Expressive on summer fruits of ripe strawberry and yellow nectarine, this rosé of Grenache goes deep on texture, owing to fermentation and aging in a Concrete Tulip.

Aromatically, orange peel, melon, and wet stone lead the way, with sensations of citrus oil and angostura bitters on the palate. Fleshy, fully textured, and savory, the rosé displays layers of texture into the finish.

Echolands is produced by Doug Frost & winemaker Brian Rudin.
